Each decision is the outcome of a complex process that usually involves two different kinds of thinking: looking backward to understand the past and looking forward to predict the future.

Decision Making: Going Forward in Reverse

Forward-Looking Decision Making is about modeling this individual or family-based decision making using an optimizing dynamic programming model. Robert Hall first reviews ideas about dynamic programs and introduces new ideas about numerical solutions and the representation of solved models as Markov processes.

Forward-Looking . Decision Making . Individuals and families make the key decisions that determine the future of the economy. The decisions involve balancing current sacrifice against future benefits.
